

The consultation specialists

RICHARDSON:O'ROURKE has been recognised as one of Canberra's leading management consulting firms, being named a finalist in the Telstra Business Awards.

Managing director David O'Rourke said the nomination has been a team effort.

"The team has worked really hard and this nomination is a testament to that."

In the past two years richardson:o'rouрке has grown from a three-person operation to a 16-person team, delivering solutions to a broad range of government and commercial clients.

"Since our inception four years ago, we've had the vision to become Australia's own tier one management consulting firm with a presence in all Australian major cities and ultimately overseas," David said.

richardson:o'rouрке's progress isn't going unnoticed — they were recently acknowledged as one of Australia's fastest-growing companies in the Business Review Weekly Upstarts 2006 list.

Centrally located in Manuka, they specialise in:

★ Project and program management;

Driven: David O'Rourke and Stuart Richardson from richardson:o'rouрке.

- ★ Business management consulting;
- ★ Marketing and communications; and
- ★ Enterprise information communications technology.

"We have a very dynamic culture and we bring something different to the market," he said. "Everyone of our team members work towards the same goal of providing clients with long-term solutions and sound management advice." With this approach, they have established a reputation as experts, capable of solving their clients' business challenges while delivering value-for-money solutions. "Our staff are a blend of very experienced individuals and youthful people to encourage innovation within our business and for our clients."

A selection of clients include the Department of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs, Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet, Department of Defence, Australian Customs Service, Australian Taxation office, Department of Finance and Administration, Department of Human Services and several private-sector clients.

richardson:o'rouрке can operate as an outsourced team or deliver on demand, on-site advisory services.

As one of Australia's fastest growing companies, richardson:o'rouрке's is always looking for professionals to join their team. They believe the right attitude and desire to innovate and achieve results is essential. Their culture embraces professionals with a positive, can-do attitude.

For more information, call the team on 6163 9000.